Tc ltd eb402382 nic driver for windows 7,,eb402382-nic-drivers-for-windows.rarPerformance and Core Memory, the low-cost memory module company owned by Micron, has successfully funded a Series A round of financing to the tune of $37 million. Series A is a financing round that is for startup companies with a minimum of a $5 million pre-money valuation. This round is headlined by New Enterprise Associates (NEA) and is led by the firm's Managing Director, Christopher Smale. First up, we have some comments on Neill McQueen, who is the Managing Director of NEA and was responsible for acquiring Core Memory. McQueen served as the Corporate Vice President at KPMG from 1983 to 2004, where he was a specialist in corporate finance, mergers & acquisitions, and public company services. In 2004, he became the Chief Operating Officer of NEA, a position in which he was responsible for NEA's strategy and business operations. McQueen is credited with establishing NEA as one of the premier private equity groups in the United States. Core Memory is a startup company that develops low-cost DDR3 and DDR2 SODIMM memory modules for mobile devices. Core Memory was founded in February of 2012 and began operations in October of the same year. The company was founded by Robert Mills, and includes as investors, Robert Mills and Mike Morton, amongst others. Core Memory said this in their official statement, "Core Memory will serve as the leader in the development of next generation non-volatile memory. Our technology will enable cell phone manufactures to incorporate larger and denser DRAM into mobile devices such as smart phones, tablets and laptops. Our strategic partnership with Micron will enable Core Memory to rapidly achieve the scale necessary to compete with larger semiconductor companies. "Our partnership with Micron will also enable the integration of high-performance and low-cost SRAM technology into mobile device products and the development of the LPDDR3 protocol. By combining the best of DRAM and SRAM, Core Memory is uniquely positioned to lead the memory hierarchy for mobile devices. As the world's leading memory producer, Micron has in-depth knowledge and proven capabilities to help us capture the momentum. Core Memory was originally created by Micron at a $5M investment. We expect to reach profitability in 2013 and have enough funds to continue to build and scale our technology
